

I am sorry to report that the recording of the third Monday call did not work. However, this call was focused on news and taking a brief look at the checklist document previously shared. We did not have any additional items or expanded discussions.

Our participants today were Fukuchi San, Nick Lynch-Jonely, Carlos Cheung, Endo San and myself.

The agenda slides contain our news. Some key points:
Our international automotive and tooling work groups have started with substantial subscriber numbers.
We have our third work group in Korea on the 4th of September.
We have our first work group in China on the 25th of September.
During the next week we will have exciting announcements about case studies and partners.
OpenChain finally...has an official t-shirt. You will see it at future events.

We also spoke about the new checklist document contributed by FOSSA. This document, lead by Taylor @ FOSSA, is a living community document. It would be super great if you could take a look and comment on the content. There are a few TODO items and helping to close those would allow us to get another great community reference resource translated and into many hands. Check it out here:
https://docs.google.com/document/d/1HL59D1Ztb7\_DZrmks5yqAicEGRkxzMKqe6yB3ieD040/edit#heading=h.6tvlutyyiiijag

We closed with a note that the OpenChain Workshop will take place tomorrow, the 20th of August, adjacent to Open Source Summit North America from 3:30pm.